Compressed Gas Cylinder CGC Safety – Quick Course

Course Description

Compressed or liquefied gas cylinders are often used to store chemicals for industrial purposes. Because cylinder contents are under high pressure, there can be physical and chemical hazards involved with the use of compressed gas cylinders. This quick course will cover these hazards and tips on how to protect yourself when working with CGC’s.