HEARING LOSS CAN OCCUR GRADUALLY.
But the lifelong effects can be

HIERARCHY OF HAZARD CONTROLS

The Hierarchy of Controls is a step-by-step approach to eliminating or reducing workplace hazards by ranking controls from the most effective to the least effective level of protection. When choosing a control method, start from the top and assess the feasibility of the first layer of controls before moving on to the second.

Continue this process until you reach the bottom of the pyramid and have identified as many controls as needed to protect workers from the hazard.
