Picture This! Housekeeper Oversteps the Boundaries of Safety

This photograph illustrates a problem that’s been in the news lately—housekeeping staff putting their lives at risk by attempting to clean the outside surfaces of windows in Singapore. We’re not sure where this picture was taken, or who to credit for it, but it shows how dangerous climbing out onto a window ledge can be. What good is a sparklingly clean window if the person who attended to it is lying severely injured or dead on the ground below?