Questions to Ask Before a Work Task Fallen Phrases

Answer: There are many different questions we can ask ourselves and the other individuals involved in a work task to ensure we are working safely. Taking the time to evaluate work areas before work starts will help eliminate hazards can prevent an injury from occurring. The prudent action for any worksite that is preparing to initiate any new work is to have an actual physical checklist of the projected work.