About the Webinar

One of the largest challenges employers have is ensuring that their employees are receiving training that covers all of the necessary elements, which also resonates with employees to reduce complacency. What follows are tips on how safety trainers can develop their programs to resonate with employees and ensure that they are developing an understanding of consequence. Please join us for a webinar that covers these elements:

1. Developing a safety training program that is easy to understand;
2. Ensuring your employees are engaged in the training program;
3. Ensuring your employees resonate the teachings behind the program;
4. Commendation and Awards and how they impact your training program; and
5. Take away tips to ensure you have an effective training program.
